

9 Using cabinets from ranges by the same manufacturer is a way to create the look of a bespoke unfitted kitchen on a budget. Here, cream units from the Wells range and sage green cabinets in Sterne design by Wren Kitchens are combined. Kitchens start from £1,470.

10 Made from reclaimed wood, this antique pine kitchen by Churchwood employs some of the principles of unfitted kitchen design. Off-floor styling for base units looks free-standing, and vintage details like a painted prep table add to the classic look. From £15,000.

items of furniture you already own, especially if they are antiques, personalises the room, relates it more closely to the house and delivers a unique result.

If you don't possess distinguished furniture that can be brought into your kitchen, simple ideas such as including hanging open shelves or plate racks, fitting a window seat and displaying your favourite pictures and pottery will give the room character. >

11 Cabinets in the Suffolk kitchen by Neptune come in enough variations of the simple panelled Shaker style and different colour options to create an unfitted look. Free-standing pieces such as the potboard cabinet and chopping block complete the effect. Prices begin at £9,000.